1. Reference reports indicate a highly satisfactory development thus far of EASTBOUND Project, and the Home Office is most appreciative of the work which you and □ have done on this important operation.

2. We are looking forward with great interest to the additional reports which □ is preparing, and trust that the additional stenographic assistance now en route to you, or in process, will relieve his reporting problems shortly.

3. The Home Office is in general agreement with the comments made by □ in paragraphs 7 and 8 of his 13 April memorandum. It is also believed that the idea mentioned in paragraph 9 is a good one.

4. The format and printing of the news bulletins is considered very good, and we are happy to learn that publication in this size has not interfered with distribution. We agree that it has more eye appeal than the comparable edition of Telegraf -- although the latter are altogether satisfactory.

5. We are happy to learn also that □ successor is in agreement with, and consonant to carry out, this project.

6. With regard to □'s reaction to the use of EASTBOUND distribution facilities for other material, it is not surprising that he adopts the initial attitude outlined by □. We fully recognize the delicacy of handling which will be required to develop □ into an increasingly useful instrument for our purposes. □ is to be commended for the way he handled this contact and for the fact that he did not press the matter unduly.
